

Comment from Anonymous

Much of the document talks about eliminating FMVSS requirements without any attempt to replace with new requirements. For instance, if the steering wheel and pedals are eliminated, what other means should be provided to be able to take control of a runaway vehicle. For instance, should there be an OnStar like system to be able to pull the vehicle over safely by a wireless command should the vehicle be out of control? Should there be a capability for a remote virtual driver? It is unreasonable to eliminate these FMVSS requirements without first having new requirements to replace the old ones. I would not advise approving this petition in the interests of public safety until this step is taken.