

Comment from Brian Smith

No postings in over a year, when might we actually get a decision on GM's request? At a minimum I think a decision and disclosure of the underlying reasoning is appropriate.

Currently I am leaning toward the Center For Auto Safety's position that GM has not demonstrated a sufficiently differentiated design to justify their petition. NHTSA's failure to act is essentially support of GM's petition.