

Comment from James Montgomery

I see maintenance problems. Sooner or later somebody will get lackadaisical on maintenance. Or they might even start overloading the trucks. There was some talk in Texas that deal T would not be allowed to bother the autonomous trucks. So I see a chance for somebody to take shortcuts and abused the maintenance program or put more freight on a truck just so they can ship it cheaper. How will the DPS know of it happening it's the truck will not be falling into scales and getting inspected for weight and maintenance. I'm not saying everybody will abuse the opportunity but you know sooner or later somebody will it's Human Nature. Oh so what's going to happen the first time the truck get in a emergency response situation and it's response to keep from hurting one person takes somebody else out? But what would I know? I'm just a veteran driver of 33 years experience.