

Comment from Larry Madonia

I would say no to speed limiters, I see road safe is pushing for to limit the speed all road safe is a lobby for the corporate Giants to use government to remove all competition from the playing field, ELD was supposed to make things safer which it did not, the industry is made of companies thirty trucks and less, it effects there bottom line, or look at this way when this rule takes effect government effectively be slicing it own throat on taxes so the government will raise taxes on general public the trucking industry has effectively held taxes down for the general public , the highway fund was solvent for many years many senators used that money for special projects, speed

Limiters will effectively cost the general public more money and cost lives due the wastefulness of this government to believe corporate entity's just like ELD was supposed to save lives, which it has not,

Thank you
