

Comment from Justin Butler

There's several barriers now and will always be barriers. My main concern is there will be a human in conjunction with the automation. I think with both and only both we can improve safety. Thanks