

Comment from Tom Corcoran

I am extremely upset with Chevrolet and with NHTSA with the continuous delay with a factual resolution of this revealed defect. This should have already been resolved. It appears that GM is trying to evade the replacement of thousands of Takata airbags through continued delaying tactics. As these vehicles age out and are replaced, their requirement to replace these defective airbags diminishes. I plan to drive my 2007 Avalanche until the wheels fall off, and then replace the wheels and continue to drive it JUST TO ensure the airbag problem is fixed. You need to deny this petition and require GM to replace the airbags NOW.