David Embry - Comments

For this technology to be successful, autonomous vehicles must be able to communicate with the road. Therefore, "smart roads" must be developed simultaneously with autonomous vehicles. Smart roads could alert autonomous vehicles of construction, crashes, slowdowns or anything relevant to dynamic traffic conditions miles in advance of what a human operator could anticipate.