

Ralph Baker - Comments

Sadly enough, we have enough enemies that want to kill Americans all around the world. We really don't need a home grown one to kill us here on the roads, and surly we don't need longer waiting lines for unemployment benefits to make America great again.