

Anonymous Anonymous

As an individual I believe that the automation of trucking should not be fast-tracked. There are far too many safety concerns that need to be carefully addressed. If and when automation does come to pass the driver should not be taken out of the loop. There should be a driver present at all times. Computer automation will never be adequate to ensure the safety of motor vehicle traffic in a complex ever-changing environment.