Stanley Sanders - Comments

This is one of the most dangerous ideas that I have ever heard of. With all the people that have the capacity to hack into computer systems, this is a disaster waiting to happen. Any person involved with implementing this driver less truck fiasco should be totally responsible for any accident. From the manufacturer to all government officials.

There has already been major accidents involving the Tesla trials.