

R W Stevenson - Comments

Automated are a bad idea there has not been enough testing and there is to many safety concerns your talking about an 80k pound truck going down the on it's own anything can happen from computer mishaps to the guy riding the not being able to get controle of the truck soon enough this thing is being pushed to fast and people will dye from this you give eld because of safety and it has made it worse more trucks wreck now than ever and you think automated will be safer absolutely not computers fail everyday a sudden stop or cut off or sudden black ice or super strong winds or someone come off an exit ramp 40mph and cuts in front of that could lock up brakes and stars a chance reaction of wrecks myself being I always have an escape route if not I know how to slow down to keep an accident like that from happening 35 years experience versus automated truck I will win in safe driving please do not rush this it could be your family that does because of automated trucks