

Keith Danko - Comments

You do realize that fast-tracking this autonomous trucks is going to kill people. There needs to be way more testing real time testing done. Let alone what is it going to do hidden citizens are these United States you realize how many jobs are going to be lost just for money and greed. You say you're for safety I don't see safety in this at all. We had no idea how these trucks are going to handle storms, potholes, grooves in the pavement that want to swing you to one side or the other. And that's just a small part of things that needs to be understood first. I implore you to put the brakes on this issue and think about your citizens the economy jobs being lost in the name of safety? I think not.