

Jamie Nicholson - Comments

There needs to be a human driver on duty ready to take control. Until this technology is in wide use and the engineers can work the bugs out of the system and see what kind of problems are likely to come up.