

Anon Anon - Comments

I am fully against any sort of ADS, car or commercial trucks. Imagine sharing the road in Atlanta rush hour with hundreds of self driving trucks! Where I live there is a place where GPS sends vehicles both car and truck to a dead end road. This has been happening for years. What happens then? What this is all about is greed. Big company greed. Wouldn't it be cheaper to pay your drivers a decent wage? There is no driver shortage. There is a shortage of drivers willing to work for peanuts. And when your automation puts everyone out of work, who is going to buy your stuff?