

James Mack - Comments

I for one as a Safe Independent Owner Operator do not trust this unproven tech used on open roads. You can't not perfect a desk top computer or cell phone. The safety of the general public including my family shouldn't be put in jeopardy for the low wage self insured mega fleets to save a buck. Just like we have told you buffoons you can't fix this issue with technology. Look at the ELD, safety has not improved. My personal opinion being a professional driver is the road ways are less safe. I can not count how many accident I avoid in a daytime with general public. The auto drivers need a remedial driving school, or test. Hell you haven't even installed seat belts into school buses in 2019. Yet we can have a 80k commercial vehicle with a software issue or mechanical failure cruising down the road?