

Kathryn Effrick - Comments

The thought of autonomous trucks on our roads is absolutely terrifying, there is no reason for autonomous vehicles in any industry. These vehicles will cause a massive job loss, what are people supposed to do? People who have been driving for years and who have established a life with in those financial standards, what are they supposed to do? Many of these men and women love what they do, they love it so much that they continue to stick with it even after all the unjust and unfair regulations and the brokers taking money out of their pockets. Most of these people do what they do because of the love of providing for the American people. My question is, why are we even considering autonomous vehicles? Why even entertain an idea that would cause millions, job displacement and unsafe roadways? You can use the word "safe" 1000 times in your statements about autonomous vehicles, that still doesn't make them safe and they NEVER will be safe.