

Brandon Greer - Comments

I absolutely disagree with automated vehicles. No computer has the ability of critical thinking, judgement, or discernment that the human mind has.

It will not be safe in inclement weather, poor road conditions, or in the event of catastrophic failure.

The above points don't take into account how many folks would be put out of work.