Comment from Bill Seagrave

We as drivers, do not want automated trucks on the road. To the driver, they are going to take jobs for all men and women of this country. Just as you have seen when it comes to self check out in Wal-mart. You have one person running 8 machines. Where you could actually have 8 people running machines and more people employed in those positions.

Allowing machines to do our jobs, does nothing to help us with employment. What would you say if the computer here decided the outcome of these comments and made the changes themselves. Would you not be out of a job sooner then you think.

These automated trucks can't check on a load shift, or stop for issues. Issues that I am referring to are those small things, like a thumping tire getting ready to blow, a burning smell coming from the brakes or the engine itself. These are things that humans make life saving decisions on each and everyday.

Thing about if the vehicle malfunctions and crashes in a vehicle that it could have clearly missed. As drivers, we make decision that could affect everyone on the road. Just as avoiding that family in the car and taking our own lives, instead of killing someone or multiple people.

Do not let, big tech take over the American trucking industry, we need our jobs and these jobs support our families. It helps pay the bills, setup for retirement. Our very livelihoods are at stake.
