I bought a brand new 2017 GMC Yukon XL in 2017. Since I bought it it has had the Takata airbag recall. I keep reading about it and how dangerous it is to drive. I keep following up about it and GM keeps saying that it is waiting for NHTSA to make a decision. This blaming has gone back and forth for a long time . I am a not sure who is the one that is going to make the final decision but it does need to be resolved ASAP. Also, the dashboard on my vehicle has cracks which makes it worst because it has stated that pieces of the dashboard will harm the people sitting in the front. Hopefully there is already a quick resolution and I will be notified. I will leave my information below and wait to hear from someone to tell me my options. Thank you
