

Comment from Mark Winfield

Its a good idea especially if data from Europe is leveraged to help make improvements where needed. The systems have the potential to help provide better visibility in rain and snow, and should provide equal to or better coverage than existing mirrors all while improving fuel economy.

Unfortunately they are new and advanced and the traditional truck appearance crowd wont like them, but we need to bring technology in when it helps us save money and do our jobs.