I believe that this updated regulation is necessary and extremely helpful. The government has a direct interest in the well-being of its citizenry. Their safety is an important facet of that wellbeing. New technology has become available and it is time for the regulations to catch up with that development. Cameras and the CMS would make cars safer and that is simply a fact. It is extremely rare that the public, private sector, and the public sector agree that more regulation needs to be put into place. Safer vehicles are a topic that even automakers agree is necessary and would benefit everyone. Safe cars mean fewer accidents and fewer accidents mean fewer lawsuits for the auto industry. Cameras on cars have been optional for too long and it should now be required. The safety of divers is a top priority and it should be solidified by the approval of this new regulation.
