I am in favor of side view cameras on vehicles. My 2015 Honda Odyssey has the passenger side 'lane watch' camera mounted to the underside of the traditional mirror. I find myself using 'lanewatch' in constant on mode (camera image continuously displayed on center monitor) due to the superior visibility of the camera/monitor to the mirror itself. I only wish there were two monitors with cameras on both sides. I would also prefer the monitors to be side by side in the center of the dash rather than mounted near the doors.
