Compliance Test Program for Tires

Introduction

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) is an operating administration of the United States Department of Transportation (DOT). NHTSA's mission is to save lives, prevent injuries and reduce traffic-related health care and other economic costs associated with motor vehicle crashes. As part of its mission to reduce fatalities and injuries caused by motor vehicle crashes, NHTSA promulgates Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards (FMVSS). Manufacturers of motor vehicles and items of motor vehicle equipment are required to certify that each product they sell in the United States meets the requirements of all applicable safety standards. NHTSA's Office of Vehicle Safety Compliance (OVSC) is charged with determining whether manufacturers meet the applicable safety standards. This contract effort will enable the agency to meet its mission by identifying tires that may not meet the requirements of FMVSS No. 139, FMVSS No. 119, and FMVSS No. 109.

Background

The agency enforces federal requirements for motor vehicles and motor vehicle equipment. To achieve this, the administration develops and conducts compliance programs to test motor vehicles and motor vehicle equipment according to the federal standards. The purpose of the standard is to reduce traffic accidents, deaths and injuries resulting from motor vehicle crashes and assuring that compliant tires are sold and used on US roads.

Purpose

The purpose of this requirement is to obtain services associated with the acquisition, inspection, compliance testing, and reporting of tires to assist the government in its enforcement efforts for FMVSS pertaining to tires. NHTSA requires additional information specific to the tests including, but not limited to: test data, photos, video, details about the test set up, test observations, details about the test item configuration, etc.
