

Comment from Jhony Zavaleta

A video monitoring system offers many advantages from the safety standpoint (more FOV, range lines, low/night vision, etc), from the fuel efficiency standpoint (less drag and therefore better range), from the comfort point of view: no wind noise; etc.

It is an overdue regulation modification being adapted in many other countries. Our auto manufacturers shouldn't be forced to be behind in adapting this technology and the regulations that go with it.