

Comment from Alyssa Ellis

Public reporting of testing data is necessary for transparency. Testing on public roadways should result in mandated publicly available data. The necessity of data will aid in the regulatory process down the road.