

Comment from Jesse Daily

NHTSA should assess the maximum civil penalty allowable and not lessen it for automakers who have benefitted by relaxed standards won by lobbyists, who would watch our world burn for an extra dollar in their pocket! Our planet is dying and those people with the power to do something about it refuse to. Don't ease the already low fines on corporations who have already sold our children and grandchildren's futures! For god's sake do something to show them someone will stand up to them, show them someone isn't in their pockets!