Cameras are a bad idea for few reasons and ill share that with you

1. glare on the display screen makes it hard to see and makes it dangerous for a large truck to make safe lane changes.
2. Electronics fail and if they do then you can not make a lane change safely or pull over safely if you can not see beside or behind you .

I have been driving a semi truck for 25 years and there is no good reason to install cameras and monitors in a already distracting vehicle . This will lead to more accidents and deaths and should not even be aloud to be tested . Mirrors have worked for so long and continue to work without electronic failure or sun glare on a screen . So this should be shot down to not be aloud in any large vehicle.
