

Comment from Patrick Mancini

I am in favor of updating current standards to allow for camera based side mirrors. current advancements in collision detection and blind spot-monitoring technologies have proven its effectiveness. Similar standards have been moved along in non-US markets.