

Comment from Anonymous

I read thru the report and it is a lot of information to digest. I think that improving the infrastructure and keeping better records and data are very important in this effort to increase safety. Lower speeds would have a huge impact. I believe compliance with the rules of the road is your greatest hurdle. More severe consequences for non compliance with the regulations may result in greater compliance. Jail time for DUI's, larger fines for speeding or no seat belts, mandatory classes for any infraction, including speeding may give greater compliance. We need to develop a system that deters people from non compliance. Making it a mandatory feature on cell phones to disable texting whenever in a moving vehicle may be needed to eliminate texting and driving. Records are needed and great but we need some real action.