Mazda writes to provide an update on progress following the establishment of the Leading Automakers' Commitment to Implement Rear Seat Reminder Systems (the "Commitment") in September 2019.<sup>1</sup>

Mazda manufactured no vehicles for sale in the U.S. between September 1, 2021, through August 31, 2022, that were equipped rear seat reminder systems, subject to the Commitment. However, such systems are currently under development and Mazda remains committed to their implementation by no later than 2024, or the 2025 model year.
