I am writing in support of the requirement of side underride guards on large vehicles. Every life must be saved no matter what the cost. If large vehicles like this are going to share the road with small vehicles, every precaution must be taken to make this situation as safe as possible. If we do not adopt these rules we are effectively telling the victim's families that "I'm sorry, it was just too expensive to try to save your loved one's life." This is not an acceptable.
