

Comment from Catherine Robertson

This is so needed. Now that glucagon can be administered nasally, it should be included in all emergency EMS protocol for diabetics. It's a life-saving tool that should also be made readily available for the general public to use in case of hypoglycemic emergencies.